Hyperspace Pinball is an exhilarating, free collectible coin-op pinball game for the PC and Macintosh computer. The game was written in Ruby. The graphics are with the author's permission based on a Sega Pinball machine (the actual mock-up). Like the arcade games of yore, the main objective of Hyperspace Pinball is to score points by rolling the ball into predetermined scoring targets. But Hyperspace Pinball features interesting elements which make it far more than a simple pinball game. These elements are fairly obvious as a note on the machine's front door states "FOR MANY YEARS THE PINBALL GAME HAS BEEN THE GREATEST OUTDOOR ENTERTAINER OF ITS TIME. I WOULD LIKE TO GIVE YOU A GAME THAT WOULD MAKE THE PINBALL GAME WE ALL KNOW AND LOVE LOOK LESS BETTER THAN EVER BEFORE. I HOPE YOU LIKE IT!" Possibly best known for its unique graphics, Hyperspace Pinball will also play in a highly modified form of the classic pinball style of gameplay. A hallmark of this style of gameplay is the use of a field-based scoring method rather than the fixed "wing" scoring of the traditional pinball style. Additionally, the player has the option of controlling their shot or the ball on the playfield to make their shots more or less difficult. The game presents a number of new challenges to players of all skill levels. Each pinball table has special bonus rounds with free ball targets and special scores. Several tables are constructed into "Bonus Rackets" which feature goals for scoring. The pinball tables vary in difficulty and are well suited to all skill levels. The game features over thirty tables, which can be played in five different modes. * Arcade mode * Endless play mode * Time trials * Score attacks * Competition mode The game features a variety of boards, including tables with balls deflecting back and forth or the ramp having a "rocking" effect as the ball rolls by, allowing it to be targeted by the player with relative ease. This game is great for someone looking for a relatively easy first pinball experience or those just looking to relax after a long day of work. You will experience great graphical and audio effects while playing this game. THIS GAME IS LICENSED TO THE AUTHOR. YOU ARE NOT BUYING A COPY OF THE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT LICENSE. What's new:

The Woman Who Is No One I wake, in my loneliest little room, and find that I don't remember anything. Well, not very much at least. And I have no idea where I am. The woman, Nan, said to call me again next month, and I have no idea how to contact her. Oh, and someone brought me here on a train after…[1] [1] Projection, individuals, past few weeks: December 15th, 17th, 18th. Parlay? What does it matter? My birth date and my face are very well-known, and I have been doomed to confinement for over a year now. In reality, I was a young woman of about twenty years, so my gentle attempts to persuade the passengers that I was a girl were quite fruitless. Even if they did not land in a brothel tomorrow, they'd have little sympathy for the plight of a beautiful young woman. No matter if she was completely lonely or even a succubus, the Blackguard treated her the same way they did everyone: with disdain. No matter. It is an equal work day, and no one would miss me, not unless she were a very nice person. So why not get my pay while I am thinking about my past. A year has passed, and the employees get a modest raise whenever I open the pay window. The bank can afford the games, and they're free. So why not play some Pathfinder RPG and learn from my mistakes? When I am finished I will take care of my mysterious present and then… I'll think about it. Ask the computer. This is a fantasy setting. I have no idea how to distinguish "real" dragons from the Player's Handbook. Since I'm a computer NPC, I don't really know anything more than ten lines of words. [2] Only the most important ones seem to have made it to the Wiki. But let's not get disappointed. The players will only learn the ten lines of words by asking me, and I will learn them for them. If this were a live campaign, I would ask them for questionnaires and such. I will lay out the ten magic items on the table for the party. The dungeon master will visit me on the shortest of schedules and take his ten magic items. He will then visit me on the second morning, when all magic items will disappear and the dungeon master will take my pay
