It is now a valuable resource for people who want to make the most of their mobile devices, from customizing the look and feel to adding new functionality.Are you a developer?Hillary Clinton invited Bernie Sanders supporters to help her "win" the upcoming presidential election. The hashtag #FeelTheBern has trended on Twitter since its release on Friday, and Clinton quickly jumped on it to appeal to her supporters. "I'm deeply grateful to everyone who's helping us #FeelTheBern this week and I hope you all will join us on Monday," Clinton tweeted. I'm deeply grateful to everyone who's helping us #FeelTheBern this week and I hope you all will join us on Monday. — Hillary Clinton (@HillaryClinton) September 13, 2016 The hashtag also quickly caught the attention of Donald Trump who used it to call Clinton out on her proposal to raise taxes on the wealthiest Americans. Bernie Sanders supporters are feeling the Bern, a little to my surprise. — Donald J. Trump (@realDonaldTrump) September 13, 2016 However, it's unclear if Clinton's hashtag directly pays attention to Trump's tweet. Trump seemed to be referring to Clinton's position about taxing the wealthiest Americans. Clinton has proposed raising taxes on the wealthiest 2 percent of Americans for anyone who makes more than $250,000. "So let's raise taxes on those with the biggest incomes," Clinton said. "A lot of Donald Trump's supporters have benefited from these and other tax cuts." On Tuesday, the Clinton campaign clarified her position on taxes and said she would not raise taxes on anyone making less than $250,000, according to the Washington

Duax Lite

Duax Lite is a software that notices you when the Internet connection is broken. Duax Lite is especially useful if you have more than one computer connected in a local area network that is sharing a single modem. Without an audible alarm one of the computers (the ones without the modem) or some software running in the background might establish unintentional and unnoticed modem connections. Duax Lite also shows your own IP-address and the time spent online during the current Internet session. How Duax Lite works: Duax Lite uses the telephone line in many different ways to monitor the quality and performance of the Internet connection. Most dial-up modems provide two or four alarm states. Duax Lite uses these alarms to signal you that your connection has changed. Alarms: Duax Lite uses two Alarms for each connection: ☐ No Alarm. ☐ Alarm. Alarm states are defined by a combination of the dial-up modem's performance values. The dial-up modem's performance values - read below. Connected (State 1) Called: 0 Received Data: 0 Duration: 0 Disconnected (State 0) Disconnected (State 1) Called: 0 Received Data: 1 Duration: 0 Duax Lite alarms are most commonly sounded when a dial-up modem goes to a different, or unknown network. Duax Lite settings: ☐ Defines whether or not Duax Lite should be automatically activated when your modem powers on. ☐ Defines whether or not Duax Lite should be automatically activated when your modem powers off. ☐ Defines the interval at which Duax Lite will check for dial-up modems (minutes). ☐ Defines the time interval at which Duax Lite will send out an audible alarm (seconds). Duax Lite Alarm settings: When connecting to a dial-up modem the following values will be returned by the modem. 1 = No Alarm. 0 = Alarm. 2 = Immediate Alarm. 1 = No Delay. 0 = Delay. 2 = Immediate Delay. 1 = Counting. 0 = Counting. 2 = Immediate Counting. 1 = Individual. 0 = Individual. 2 = Immediate Individual. 1 = CTCSS. 0 = CTCSS. 2 = Immediate CTC
