Assessment of long-term survival after carbon monoxide intoxication. We evaluated the long-term survival rate in patients who had been clinically treated for carbon monoxide (CO) intoxication. Seventy-four patients were treated for severe acute CO intoxication between 1974 and 2001. Eighteen patients, including 11 men and seven women, with an average age of 65.9 +/- 16.6 years, were diagnosed as having CO poisoning. CO levels were measured in blood obtained at the time of admission. All patients were treated within 48 h after admission and survived for at least 6 months. The mean peak concentration of serum COHb was 33.2 +/- 12.2%. The patients were divided into survivors and non-survivors
