Games AG The site is currently down. The administrators have refused to verify when it will be back. Like AG, most of the games are for sale on Steam. The work is done on a Mac with Mountain Lion and WINE. If there's a program for linux, it should be easy to port. There are also some games for Android that are only available from AG. They can be downloaded from the Android Marketplace. These apps are free and work with the Google Play app store. So far, with the exception of games from AG/Steam/OSX, all downloads from the Android Marketplace are only available in the US. GOOGLE BASED TOOLKIT: LogiTools is a Google-based browser and search engine. LogiTools' own content is free to view, although free subscription to any other content, including content from the Usenet newsgroups is not allowed. Languages: LogiTools has its own admin interface and is available in a number of languages. Usenet Newsgroups: LogiTools was developed for newsgroup administrators to let them manage their groups and maintain them on their own computers without the need of a cloud or server-side solution. LogiTools was intended to be hosted on a server at Usenet.com. However, this has not yet been possible. The development of LogiTools was brought to an end when the Usenet providers discontinued Usenet.com. Now, LogiTools is hosted on the Google-based browser and search engine LogiTools. Usenet Server: In the development stage, LogiTools was designed to be hosted on a server at Usenet.com. However, Usenet has discontinued Usenet.com. Other formats: LogiTools hosts Usenet groups and Newsgroups in other formats, such as Yahoo! Groups and web forums. This is done by using the LogiTools administration interface to make it appear like the Usenet group runs on a server or cloud. The advantage of this is that it is available wherever there is an internet connection. Usenet Browser: LogiTools is a Usenet browser. This means that users can access the Usenet newsgroups and read and post messages in groups. LogiTools has its own newsreader, which is hosted on the browser and automatically fetches the latest data from groups. The user can browse for newsgroups and 1cdb36666d
