Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a technique of a surface acoustic wave device, and more particularly to a technique that enables the stabilization of a propagation loss and an improvement in a S/N (signal-to-noise ratio) on an edge part of the surface acoustic wave device. B. Description of the Related Art As shown in FIG. 26, a surface acoustic wave device is provided in a surface acoustic wave filter, which is an example of a surface acoustic wave device, having a surface acoustic wave filter section 201 and a transmission line section 202. The surface acoustic wave filter section 201 includes an interdigital transducer (IDT) 201
