Dan Fogelberg - Souvenirs.(1) Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a method for forming a thin film layer of a semiconductor device for an integrated circuit. (2) Description of the Prior Art The circuits of the integrated circuits are now arranged in a very densely packed manner. It is, therefore, required to form a thin film layer of a semiconductor device for the integrated circuit, generally with a thin film of a polycrystalline silicon, on a very large area, the film being used for forming the circuits. There has been a practical need for a method of forming the thin film layer of the semiconductor device, with high orientation of the polycrystalline silicon and with good adhesiveness to a substrate. A prior art method of forming the thin film layer of the semiconductor device is now described with reference to FIG. 1 and FIG. 2. A semiconductor substrate 1 is prepared. The semiconductor substrate 1 is comprised of, for example, monocrystalline silicon. A silicon dioxide film 2 is formed on the semiconductor substrate 1, the film 2 having such a thickness, as to cover the top surface of the semiconductor substrate 1. The silicon dioxide film 2 is formed by first depositing a silicon dioxide film on the semiconductor substrate 1 and subsequently, performing a heat treatment at a high temperature. The film 2, covering the semiconductor substrate 1, has a thickness of about 1000.Å. to 6000.Å. in terms of a number of interatomic spacings. A silicon nitride film 3 is formed on the silicon dioxide film 2, the film 3 having such a thickness, as to cover the silicon dioxide film 2, and a silicon nitride film 3 is formed on the film 2 at the same time, in a case of a thin film layer of a semiconductor device for the integrated
