A few changes... I found that the small changes to the eSpeak API got rid of the (non-portable) "security mechanism" for automatically unlocking. However, eBay's (as yet unconfirmed) handler does add an extra 2-5 seconds to the unlocking process, so if it's your only option, you may want to manually add a command to unlock the program yourself... This code is from the old version 1.9.2, from 2020-11-01:

Unlocker 1.9.5 Portable.

Unlocker Assistant helps unlock files locked by operating system permissions or other issues. The program automatically launches if you are trying to delete/rename/move a file that is locked. When not in use, it stays in your system tray bar. Additionally, individual locked files and folders may be drag-and-dropped onto unlocker.exe. Alternatively, Unlocker

Portable (beta) is a launcher-only version of Unlocker. This problem happens when one of your files or folders is locked. And a good way to solve this problem and unlock these files is to use Unlocker, a simple but effective tool that helps you exactly with this situation. Unlocker Portable is a simple tool that lets you get rid of those stubborn files that can't be deleted in the standard way.

Unlocker Portable is dead easy to use, though a bit different from the desktop version. Being a portable version, this app is not embedded with Windows Explorer. So instead of right clicking the locked file, you have to select it from the program itself. New version is out! See changelog below... ;)Unlocker 1.9.1 for 32 and 64 bit - 4/12/2011- New feature: Made it possible to delete deep directory structures
