It means you can quickly and accurately pick any color in the spectrum that you desire. It is a light coming in a dark. RGB color model fixes-up with human eyes and sense. The color of blue, for instance, is a combination of red, green, and blue light. If you wouldn't have eye, however, then it would not be possible for a person to pick any color. Hence, the human eye calibration helps at a software level and can allow you to select any color and match exactly with instruments that are used to sample colors. There are many software, which offer layer functionality or the basic editing commands feature in the thumbnail. Layer is a fundamental tool for any photo editing software. With this tool, you can isolate areas in an image and fill them with various gradients. Each gradient needle in this tool allows you to edit an individual color, a variety of gradients, or even adjust how quickly the gradient changes. Once you are finished, these areas are no longer separated. It becomes a single area of color and you can decide what type of area you want to use for it. You can adjust any one of the gradients. So, you can basically remove any areas of color from the image and use them as an element in your own work.
