If you are, download the PDF from the Muhyadheen Mala subheading above. It's free, so you should have no excuse for not getting it right now. There are many other PDFs you should try to have on hand too for those occasions when a physical copy is required. Of particular use is the home of the Muhyadheen Music subheading, also on the Muhyadheen site, which contains the pdf for the Muhyadheen Mala, Muhyadheen Mala Tani, Muhyadheen Mala Dost, and many more (many you'll know from those pages we've written about in the past). The site also has pdfs for the Kavyamala, other books and song pdfs, and a lot of other stuff. As usual, you can download the Muhyadheen Mala from this page. As mentioned above, the English PDF contains the full text of the book (English is an important part of the book and for such a rare and important book, the PDF makes it easier to read and understand for those of you whose first language is not Arabic). The Muhyadheen Mala in Arabi Malayalam is another of the beautiful works of Abdul Khadir Al Gilani, which has been translated into Arabic by the Islamic Foundation for World Peace. Unfortunately, the PDF version of the book is only available in Arabic, which makes it harder for people to access. Download it from their website for those who wish to read

Green is looking forward to having a full preseason game under his belt against the Detroit Lions on Saturday night in Cincinnati. Green, who will get the start at his preferred receiver position, confirmed on Wednesday that he suffered a left knee injury against the Minnesota Vikings in Week 14 that has caused him to miss the past two games. Green suffered the injury after making a catch while trying to defend a pass. "It was pretty good," Green said Wednesday. "We had just gotten the game ball for the win at that point, so that was pretty good. But there was just a little crack in my knee, and we just decided to play it safe and rest it for the week." Despite the injury, Green said he will be ready to play the entire game on Saturday. In two preseason games this summer, Green has been a revelation, catching six passes for 114 yards (19.5 yards per reception) and one touchdown. But Green has averaged just 19.2 yards per catch in five career regular season games. To understand how impressive Green's numbers have been in the preseason, you have to remember that the Lions have had starters at corner for both nickel and dime situations. While the Bengals likely won't have the luxury of playing Green in a large variety of situations in the regular season, he has looked like his old self in the preseason, making a lot of big plays. Having a full week to work with the starters will certainly help Green, as well. Bengals QB Andy Dalton said Green
