But should observation on some normal issues, The site style is great, the articles is truly nice : D. Just right task, cheers I like everyone else I hate 50 Cent, Eminem and Adam Levine. So I gave up on here and found some site to visit when I wanna listen to my favorite songs and I came here. LOL. This is so bad. The Visionary The Visionary In November of 2010, I attended the Gathering of the Waters outdoor film festival in Tuscany, Italy, as did my dear friend Lynette Hensley. It was a perfect day! We drove into an old Roman town, made our way to the outdoor space in the woods (did you know Rome had an ancient hippodrome?), attended a lecture, and then ate delicious food (you know how much we like to eat). Before the screening, we stayed in the beautiful, old palazzo that houses the festival. It has been almost completely renovated into a very special hotel—history, art, and hospitality all in one place. The staff was amazing and so were the accommodations—from the delicious breakfast to the fabulous patio, inside and out. One of our favorite things about the event was having dinner with Luigi. He's a wonderful man—someone who loves life and likes to talk. He told us the story of how he got to know the walls of the old palace. It's a wonderful story that is worth sharing here. Luca and Luigi After an incredible day at the festival, we were ready to head back to our hotel. We pulled into the parking lot and began to unload the car. My good friend Lynette began to carry her jacket because the weather was chilly. Then Luca, the innkeeper, began to talk about the history of the building. He was animated, using gestures and facial expressions to tell his story. Then I began to realize that he was using the whole building to tell the story. He brought us to the corner of the building where he had put two framed scenes of the palace. He wanted us to look at them and said, "See this? That is the building in the 1800s. And
