Every sketch in the application has a mode of choice that lets you change from a pencil (or eraser) mode to a brush, pencil, pen, or color mode. BELOW: After clicking the 'Sketch' cog on the toolbar, you can change the mode later as well if you want to see your latest settings as its original (pencil or brush) line (A) or color (B). ABOVE: The Sketch application window, with a recent image of my daughter's science fair model in the middle. A set of windows on the right shows thumbnails of different sketch modes (pencil or brush), and a slidable toolbar that is always in the foreground. When pencil mode is selected for editing in, a color palette and palette window are on the right side of the image. A color swatches panel pops up in front of the canvas, and the border of the pencil becomes a light pencil. A version of the sketch is shown in the window's lower right, and an export symbol is beside the name of the selected version. In the right column, a cartoony panel offers a texture editor to apply the brushed texture.
